I just started playing the game on Steam but I really loved the original Dawn Break series on the phones, they are phone games done right. No microtransactions that halt your progress, no bs, you could even play it offline. It was just spectacle action that looked flashy and hundreds of bad guys to mow down. So what is this game? Well, basically it is an instanced Dynasty Warriors with RPG elements. You have a selection of 3 characters: an icy swordsman, a fiery gunslinger, and a mage girl. You go on short levels (2-5mins) and fight dozens of monsters in an arena or 2 - until you face the boss. The combo system is very DW style with 2 buttons (a weak and charge attack) which you mix and you also equip some fairies for a special skill like healing, buffing and such. After the mission, you earn some new equipment and stuff and make your character stronger. The designs are obviously very anime-like and well done. And there is a fantasy story behind it if you care about it. So the game will definitely appeal to hack and slash fans who want some flashy action in short bursts.
